DISTRICT ATTORNEY WEST, SHERIFF JERNIGAN LAUNCH DRIVE TO NAB VIOLATORS

14 SUSPECTS IN COUNTY JAIL

LAUNCHING a campaign to dry up liquor sources throughout Orange county, District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., and Sheriff Sam Jernigan today voiced their determination of making a clean sweep of asserted violators in drug stores, hotels, road houses, pool halls and residential blind pigs.

The Harms Drug company, of Orange, was named in another complaint, issued to John Doe, and Morrison assessed a $500 fine in this case for possession.

The Doty pharmacy, of Fullerton, completed the trio of drug stores in yesterday's roundup and a $500 fine for possession was recorded by Morrison as a result of another John Doe complaint.

Another pharmacist to feel the force of the drive was George Larson, 38, of Anaheim, of the Larson Drug company, who was placed in the county jail this morning charged with selling intoxicating liquor.

RUTH INFORMED SHE MUST DIE, PLEA REFUSED

Told of Smith Decision by Brother; Gray Resigned to Fate

By LOUIS KEEMLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Ruth Snyder, facing death with terror, learned this afternoon that Governor Smith had denied her plea for clemency and that she must go to the electric chair soon after 11 p. m., tomorrow.

In the death cell at Sing Sing she was visited by her brother, Andreas Brown, who told her the news. He cheered her as well as he could.

Visited By Priest

Brown came to the prison with the Rev. Patrick Murphy, Catholic priest, who instructed Mrs. Snyder in that faith when she turned from Lutheranism after her conviction with Henry Judd Gray of the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder.

Brown was in the death house for more than an hour. When he emerged he was affected deeply and refused to discuss his visit.

Joseph Lonardo, associate counsel for Mrs. Snyder, left for Sing Sing this afternoon after a conference with Edward F. Hazelton, chief counsel, announcing he was taking an application for a writ of habeas corpus which he would have Mrs. Snyder sign.

The application will be presented in federal district court tomorrow in the hope of staying execution.

MOTHER HELD FOR SHOOTING HER SON

LONG BEACH, Jan. 11.—Morris Katz, 17, is in a serious condition in the Las Capanas hospital and his mother, Mrs. R. Katz, of North Long Beach boulevard, is being held in the Compton jail, where she surrendered after shooting the youth.

The woman is believed to have become suddenly demented and began firing at the boy and his sister, Lillian, who wrested the revolver from her mother as the woman shot down the boy and then turned the gun on her daughter.

Following the shooting, Mrs. Katz ran to the Lynwood police station, several blacks away, and surrendered.

The boy was struck in the spine by one of the bullets and is in a serious condition, hospital attaches said. (Continued on page 2)

MODERNO BUSINESS DISTRICT DAMAGED BY $100,000 BLAZE

MODESTO, Calif., Jan. 11.—Fire which broke out last night in the Latz department store in the main business artery here gutted 12 apartments in the rear of the building and caused damage that may exceed $100,000.

The blaze, described as the largest here in 10 years, was put under control after a two-hour battle by the city's whole fire department.

Tenants in the apartments escaped before the blaze could make serious headway, but many lost practically their entire belongings.

The fire, the origin of which has not yet been determined, was only a short distance from the scene of the $75,000 conflagration in the Elias Harris building a month ago.

COMMUNITY PROPERTY LAW CONSTITUTIONALITY UPHELD

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—Constitutionality of the state community property law, as amended by the California legislature in 1925, was upheld in a decision of the state supreme court, on file here today.

Three interpretations of the law, all long awaited by California attorneys, were handed down.

The first interpretation—that the widow of a man who died intestate is entitled to the whole of the community property regardless of the time it was acquired—gave to Mrs.

San Francisco Opposed As Conclave Site

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Considerable opposition to having the 1928 Democratic national convention go to San Francisco was reported today by developed leaders, especially among backers of Governor Smith of New York in a secret meeting of leaders.

Delay Inquiry Until After Havana Pan American Conference

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The senate foreign relations committee decided informally today to investigate U. S. marine activities and administration policies in Nicaragua, but to postpone such inquiry until after the Pan American conference in Havana.

Second Marine Plane Crashes; None Hurt

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 11.—A second American marine airplane has crashed near Estelí, in the campaign against revolutionary forces operating under Gen. Augustino Sandino, it was reported today. There was no loss of life. The crash was due to engine trouble.

A sergeant and 13 privates of the Nicaraguan constabulary have deserted, supposedly to join Sandino. A small force of marines and constabulary was pursuing the deserters.

Flyers Report Killing Nine Rebel Troops

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 11.—American marine airplanes returning from Quilali today reported they had made direct hits with bombs on a force of revolutionists of the Sandino party a few miles north of Quilali yesterday and had killed nine men and wounded three.

JEWELRY LITIGATION AMICABLY SETTLED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—Litigation over $100,000 worth of jewelry belonging to Pola Negri, polish film star, has been amicably settled out of court, it was revealed today when the case was called in superior court.

Suit for $14,995.20 was brought against Miss Negri by the Magarg company, jewelers of Berlin, Germany claiming that the actress withdrew deposits from a New York bank to block payment of notes presented when the jewelry was purchased.

Miss Negri contended she selected the jewelry on representations of the jewelry company that she, as a citizen of Poland, need not pay duty on them upon entering the United States.

When she entered New York, a duty of $57,000 was imposed, she says, which amount she could not afford to pay.

Details of the adjustment were not made public.

Steamer's Chief Officer Swept To Death During Gale

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Jan. 11.—Charles Mitchell, 50, chief officer of the American Pioneer line steamer Stanley, was swept overboard during a 70-mile gale at sea January 3, it was learned when the vessel docked here from the Philippines today.

The crew said the terrific storm had been in progress 25 days of the 31 at sea. The ship was badly battered.

Huge waves which swept over the bow made it impossible to launch a lifeboat and all efforts to rescue Mitchell as the ship pitched about were futile, officers declared.

Jury Tampering Question Put To Julian Talesmen

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—Questions pertaining to "jury tampering" were put to prospective jurors as they were called today for examination at the trial of 18 defendants charged with wrecking the Julian Petroleum corporation.

It was denied that the line of questioning was occasioned by any particular incident since the trial opened.

The "jury tampering" angle was brought into the case when prospective talesmen were asked regarding their conduct in case they should be approached. In each instance the jurors responded that they would immediately make known to the court any effort at "tampering."

MAN LIVES WITH BULLET IN BRAIN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—Manuel Camerona, 23, who shot himself through the brain in a suicide attempt, today had lingered between life and death in a local hospital for almost 48 hours.

Surgeons expressed themselves as baffled by his condition. Despite the fact that the frontal bone was shattered he was able to carry on an intelligent conversation with officers who questioned him.

The young man fired the intended death shot under the right side of his jaw, police said. The bullet plunged through the jaw bone, penetrated the front portion of the cerebellum and lodged just under the skin at the margin of the hair.

ESCAPES INJURY IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

RUTH INFORMED SHE MUST DIE, PLEA REFUSED

Samuel L. Miller, plans last minute action. The former corset salesman has made his will, said some far-aways and has arranged for distribution of the $21 in cash he has in the prison bank.

Both of the convicted murderers of Albert Snyder are calm. Gray's calmness is described as complete resignation, an admission of sin and willingness to die.

Mrs. Snyder's calmness, following so closely upon her outburst of nervous crying and near hysteria over the week-end, is described as that state of nervous calm which is liable to be broken momentarily.

Gray ate heartily yesterday. He read the Bible at length and then unemotionally talked with his wife, Mrs. Isabella Gray, at the prison.

Mrs. Snyder remained in bed throughout the day. She had no visitors. She complained she had no appetite.

Both were reported to have slept soundly last night.

With apparently the last road to life blocked by Governor Smith's announcement, grim details of the executions went forward. Already Mrs. Margaret Gray has arranged with the warden for disposition of her son's body.

Executions Tomorrow
The executions are scheduled for about 11 p. m., Thursday. It has not been decided which of the two will be taken to the death house first. This may not be decided until a few minutes before time for the execution.

Neither has it been decided whether Mrs. Snyder will be permitted to wear the black silk frock and the black lingerie she requested from her mother.

Both are seeking religious solace in their final hours. Yesterday Mrs. Snyder conferred with Father John J. McCaffrey, while Gray talked with the Rev. Anthony H. Peterson. Gray has ordered disposition of the $21 he has in the prison bank. Fifteen dollars was to be divided among the 11 men now awaiting death in the prison. The other $6 goes to Dixie Baldwin, a young negro, who has been sentenced to die for murder.

In asking the warden to give $5 to Baldwin, Gray wrote:

"He hasn't got anybody to do anything for him."

Text of Smith's Decision Revealed

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The text of Gov. Alfred E. Smith's decision in the case of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Harry Judd Gray follows:

"In the matter of the application for executive clemency for Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray:

"This case has received my anxious consideration, not merely since the hearing before me upon the application for executive clemency, but ever since the court of appeals unanimously affirmed the conviction of the defendants.

Distressing Situation

"The execution of this judgment on a woman is so distressing that I had hoped that the appeal to me for executive clemency would disclose some fact that would justify my interference with the processes of the law. But this did not happen.

"I have searched in vain for any basis which my conscience, in the light of my oath of office will approve, on which I might temper the law with mercy.

"Up to this writing there is no extenuation shown for what the seven judges of the court of appeals, in agreement with the 12 jurors and the trial justice, have found to be a deliberate and premeditated murder committed by these defendants.

"The application for executive clemency is therefore denied.

general board of the navy," Willbur said.

Reasonable Burden
"We do believe," he said, "that the number of cruisers proposed in this bill is a reasonable burden to be assumed by our government for the protection of its vital interests and that if the building program here presented is carried out and supplemented by a continuous building and replacement program over a period of 20 years, and if this building is systematically and continuously kept up in the future, the danger of war and therefore of destruction of our overseas commerce will be greatly minimized if not entirely met.

"America needs a first class navy.

"The building program presented by the navy department is based upon our needs in the same sense that the police force of any city is based upon its estimate of needs for the protection of the public."

MEXICO PAPERS DECLARED TO BE FORGERIES

It stated that the document published by the Hearst papers reciting this charge is "spurious and fraudulent and insofar as it purports to be signed by the president of Mexico or the secretary of treasury of Mexico, it is forged."

For the most part, the brief report cited the undisputed evidence that the documents were obvious fabrications. Its official findings were summed up as follows:

"1.—There is not a scintilla of evidence that any U. S. senator has accepted or was promised or was offered, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable things, by any officer or representative of the government of Mexico.

"2.—The pretended evidence that $1,215,000 was withdrawn from the Mexican treasury and sent to the Mexican consul general in New York City to be paid to U. S. senators is not genuine but is spurious and fraudulent and insofar as it purports to be signed by the president of Mexico or the secretary of the treasury of Mexico, it is forged."

Later Report Promised
The committee promised a later and more complete report as soon as it can further investigate its suspicions as to the perpetrator, it said.

"The committee has thus far been unable to determine to its satisfaction the identity of the manufacturers of these spurious documents and has no witnesses now under subpoena from which such information is likely to be obtained; but it appears to be advisable that the committee shall not yet be finally discharged.

"Later the committee will render a final report which, with the present report, will constitute a complete survey of the whole field of investigation that the committee shall then have covered."

Hearst Testimony Cited
The report cited that Hearst had testified he "had no evidence and knew of none which would tend to show that any senator had received any such payments and he testified that he personally did not believe that any senator had received any."

"He admitted," the report continued, "that no senator mentioned in the documents had been given any opportunity to see the documents before publication or to deny the implied accusations contained in them.

"He stated that he had instructed his representatives to verify the genuineness of the documents as far as possible."

GIRL'S SHOES SOUGHT AS NEW EVIDENCE LINK

to hold a conference with Attorney Richard Cantillon as to the order, as his test may require three or four days.

Through the shoes and stockings of little Marion Parker, which have never been found, police revealed today that they hope to uncover new angles of the brutal murder charged to William Edward Hickman.

"The Fox" was to be grilled again today by Chief of Detectives George Contreras as to the whereabouts of these articles of apparel, although he has repeatedly stated that he does not remember where or how he disposed of them.

Withholding Something?
"It appears that Hickman may be withholding something in his reluctance to reveal the hiding place of the shoes and stockings," Chief Contreras declared.

"His memory has been remarkable in every other way and he has been able to relate details of crimes committed by him more than a year ago," the detective said.

Meanwhile Hickman is to make another court appearance today when he is taken before Judge Robert Scott, of the juvenile department, to have the juvenile petition filed in connection with the forgery charges on which probation was granted last summer dismissed.

Petition Must Be Dismissed
Trial of Hickman in superior court cannot proceed until this petition, filed following Hickman's conviction of forgeries while employed in a Los Angeles bank, and making the boy slayer a ward of the juvenile court, is dismissed, Judge Scott pointed out.

The demand for the extreme penalty for Hickman by clubwomen here was met with a smug and sarcastic comment by the young slayer of Marion Parker today.

"Ought to Thank Them"
"Well, they're sure kind hearted, I ought to thank them for that," Hickman said bitterly, when apprised of a resolution passed by the Cosmos club, in which the death penalty is urged.

Despite his sarcastic attitude, "The Fox" evidenced intense interest in the action of the Cosmos club and questioned Assistant Jailor Charles Kelly at length upon the resolution, the officer said.

Kelly explained to Hickman that the resolution was to be submitted to the president's council of the district Federation of Women's Clubs, representing nearly 40,000 women, and further action is expected tomorrow.

When told that the clubwomen virtually demanded his death in the resolution, Hickman sneered, shrugged his shoulders and then laughed sullenly, Kelly said, as he dismissed the subject and turned to a new form of diversion.

Working Out Puzzles.
Hickman has obtained a dictionary and today was absorbed in working out cross word puzzles, explaining to his jailers that they were more diverting than reading the Bible, a form of entertainment which he indulged in for several days.

An effort to connect Hickman with the murder of A. R. Miles, druggist, was to be made today as the result of testimony given at the trial of Harvey Lesher, Mike Garvey and Phil Rohan, charged with the slaying.

S. S. Hahn, attorney for the three men, said that he would attempt to prove that Hickman was the slayer, following testimony of Miss Roberta Scriver, a state witness, that the man she saw running from the drug store following the holdup resembled Hickman more closely than any of the men on trial.

New Sensations Are Expected In Teapot Dome Case

possession of former Secretary of the Interior Fall shortly after he leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair. These are the only bonds so far accounted for.

Senator Norris, instigator of the new senate inquiry, charged the trading company was organized for only one transaction—to buy oil from certain men and turn it over to Sinclair and Standard companies at 35 cents a barrel profit. Why these oil men were willing to drop millions into the company's coffers, if not for a purpose best kept secret, is a puzzle Norris wants to solve.

Government lawyers were stumped on this phase of the oil scandals because one witness died, two others fled to Europe and all books and papers of the trading company were missing.

The public lands committee, which will conduct the inquiry under the Norris resolution, will meet this afternoon in executive session. The investigation is to be in the hands of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who uncovered the oil cases after months of investigation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Hearings in the senate's new Teapot Dome investigation will be Tuesday, the senate public lands committee decided this afternoon.

Sinclair Loses Attempt To Clear His Name

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, lost in district supreme court here today an attempt to clear his name of a grand jury accusation that he and six others conspired to obstruct justice through detective espionage of the Fall-Sinclair jurors.

The accusation was made in a recent grand jury presentment. Justice F. L. Siddons denied the motion to expunge from the court records the presentment against Sinclair, W. J. and W. Sherman Burns, Henry Mason Day and Sheldon Clark and Charles G. Ruddy and F. J. O'Reilly, Burns detectives.

The judge held the grand jury had a right to make its presentment.

CITY TEACHERS ATTEND DINNER TUESDAY NIGHT

Music should play an important part in everyone's life, according to John Henry Lyons, director of musical education in Pasadena, who spoke last night at the annual banquet of the City Teachers' league which was attended by more than 200 members, with their wives and husbands as guests.

Lyons quoted the ancient sage, Confucius, in saying "When music and courtesy are better understood, there will be no more wars." It was upon this proverb that most of his address was based.

Miss Meta Daniel, president of the league, during the past year introduced J. A. Cranston, superintendent of city schools. Cranston declared that there would soon be a great expansion in the school system. He pointed out that it was necessary for teachers to "keep going" in order to give realization to their hopes as teachers.

New officers for the coming year were introduced. They included L. L. Beeman, president; Miss Grace Smiley, vice president; Miss Anna Trythall, secretary; and Miss Stella Mueller, treasurer. School board members who were present for the dinner were also introduced at this time. They were Dr. Roy S. Horton and Dr. M. A. Patton.

Miss Daniel was presented with a beautiful basket of roses in appreciation of her work as president during the past year.

Beeman, who is head of the social science department at the Santa Ana high school, made an interesting talk entitled, "How to Get the Pot of Gold at the Foot of the Rainbow."

WOMAN LOSES DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST P. E.

The second damage suit against the Pacific Electric company in the local courts during the last few weeks, had been lost today when judgment was given to the defendant in a $12,203 suit brought by Mrs. Lucy Cooley, of La Habra. The duty of the highway driver to stop, look and listen before crossing a track, if he cannot see whether a car is approaching or not, was again emphasized by the outcome of the trial, which was heard before a jury in Superior Judge Homer G. Ames' court. Mrs. Cooley claimed that she had been riding with Daris B. Cooley on Cypress street, La Habra, and that the approaching electric car did not signal when it neared the crossing. She lost four front teeth and suffered an injured leg in the crash which followed. The accident occurred April 22, 1927.

Stanley Reinhaus, Frank Kerr, E. E. Morris and C. W. Cornell were counsel for the company, while Mrs. Cooley was represented by R. Goer.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASSN. HOLDS ANNUAL DINNER TUESDAY AND ELECTS NEW BOARD DIRECTORS

Election to office of men qualified for the position instead of men who are popular, particularly with reference to the law making branches of national and state government, would solve many problems of executive and enforcement departments, in the opinion of Inspector Jack Finlinson, speaker at the annual meeting of the Business Men's association held last night at St. Ann's Inn.

With Finlinson as the principal speaker, the police quartette of Los Angeles and Frank C. Drumm as toastmaster, the meeting of the group of business men and women was full of snap and offered a program of entertainment seldom had at meetings of this type.

Voices that harmonized and songs that were both harmonious and snappy made the police quartette a stellar attraction.

Finlinson pointed out many features in laws of today that handicap police departments in apprehending and convicting criminals, and it was in discussing these features that the inspector said that the qualifications rather than popularity should govern in the election of men to public office.

The fact was stressed that the type of men doing police duty today in cities is higher than in the days when a man with brute force was considered the ideal officer.

In the past two years increases in salary and better recognition by the public of the fact that intelligence is necessary in police departments, Finlinson said, in emphasizing a declaration that 95 out of every 100 cases requiring attention of police officers can be handled by substituting intelligence and diplomacy for the gun.

Disregard Laws
While maintaining that it is the duty of citizens to observe laws, the inspector freely admitted that the motor laws and the Volstead act were increasing disrespect for the law. He asserted his belief that had the Volstead law been made a little more moderate at its initiation, education by this time would have brought the people to the point where they would have sanctioned and more generally observed the more drastic features of the law.

Commenting on forgeries, the speaker declared that the keenness of business men to do business is responsible for men and women engaged in fleeing the public by this method of getting by so easily.

The business men take paper offered by strangers and then when they get stung they expect the police officers to apprehend the criminals and return the money obtained," Finlinson commented. Failure of employers to make investigation of men they take into their organizations, the inspector held as responsible for many embezzlement cases.

Herbert Rankin, president of the association, presided over the business session of the annual meeting, and recounting some of the history of the organization pointed out that the Business Men's association was the successor of the Merchants and Manufacturers association organized

COUNTY BOARD IS QUESTIONED BY GRAND JURY

The board of supervisors of Orange county went before the grand jury yesterday afternoon and today it is rumored that they were questioned rather carefully by the investigators on their method of handling payment of warrants, demands and bills.

The board preceded its appearance before the jury by a closed session in its committee room. The supervisors were asked if there was any chance for loose methods creeping into their financial work.

At every session the board faces a stack containing several hundred warrants which must be approved. Since July 1, 1927, they have passed on 400 of these papers. In round figures, each board member approves 75 warrants at each session. The amount of money involved was in the neighborhood of $200,000 in December and $270,000 in November.

The grand jury's interest in this phase of their business lies in the fact that each supervisor approves demands for payment of bills relating to his district or any county project in his charge, without passing on the other warrants which are signed by other members. The chairman approves demands after these signatures are affixed.

The opportunity for loose methods is said to lie in the fact that each supervisor does not know what bills have been approved by any member but himself.

Because of the large number of bills handled, it has been pointed out that it would be a physical impossibility for each man to study every one. At present the board spends over an hour at each session in passing on demands.

The supervisor from each district is appointed a committee of one to oversee certain county property and the authority thus delegated is not questioned by the others when the matter of paying bills is handled.

On questions of appropriations, or of demands which are questioned, the matter often comes before the board as a whole. It has been pointed out. The entire payroll for road employees, amounting to $25,000 or $30,000 each month, is signed by all the supervisors. The individual checks, sometimes 300 in number, are not passed on by each member, but only the payroll as a whole.

AUTO HITS LITTLE GIRL ON BICYCLE

Bonny Bright, 1111 East First street, narrowly escaped injury yesterday afternoon on McClay street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, when she was knocked from the bicycle she was riding, by an automobile driven by C. E. Stockton, Santa Ana, Route No. 7, according to a report filed with the city police by Stockton.

The little girl was not injured, Stockton reported, but got up and ran away from the scene, leaving behind her broken bicycle.

Anaheim Youths Arrested In S. A.

Donald Miltfred, 17, and Charles Wilson, 22, wanted in Anaheim on an assault charge, were arrested here last night by Officer Wolford, at the Finley hotel and turned over to Anaheim police.

The youths, with another man, are alleged to have assaulted a Mexican residing in Anaheim, police reported.

The two boys are photographers and the alleged assault took place following an argument over the sale of several pictures, it was said.

MANY GET BACK YOUNG APPETITE

Quick lunches, usually cold, gulped down so the "dinner hour" will not be over before you can do a little playing, is the best way to ruin your stomach, and you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, bloating, nervousness, headaches; and, worst of all, you get thin, pale and weak.

If you must eat that way, always keep a package of Page's Diapain handy so you can chew one of the pleasant-tasting tablets after your meals. It keeps the food sweet so your stomach can digest it.

Follow the experience of thousands who have a young appetite. All druggists recommend and guarantee Page's Diapain to relieve indigestion and sweeten the stomach in 5 minutes.

Winter's Colds and Chills

Throw Heavy Burdens on the Kidneys.

COLDS put extra burdens on our kidneys. When the kidneys slow up, impurities remain in the blood and are apt to make one tired and sick with headaches, dizziness and often nagging backache. A common warning is urinary burning or soreness.

Don't take a stimulant diuretic; increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Are bothered by urine troubles? Ask your neighbor!

AIR COMMITTEE TO MAKE TRIP OVER COUNTY

In the belief that a committee on aviation should see how it feels to fly, the Orange County Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, appointed yesterday by the board of supervisors, is planning today to take an air trip over Orange county in the near future, to get a birds-eye view of the situation.

A meeting will be held this week, it was reported, at which a chairman will be selected and an organization developed. The purpose of the committee is to promote aviation, aircraft industry, airports and airways and aeronautical education in public schools of Orange county. An aerological survey of this section also is to be made. The committee will report back to the supervisors next Tuesday.

The group consists of F. C. Drumm, of Santa Ana, H. T. Thompson, of Orange, Antan Dargan, of Newport Beach, M. V. Allen, of Olive, and Frank Mason, of Brea, representing the supervisory districts. The proposed air trip would cover the routes from Placentia to Santa Ana, and from Long Beach to Santa Ana.

Low Fonseca, Cleveland infielder, is believed to be the only Portuguese player in the big leagues now.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 11.—

of placing officers at points along the highways to spot the fugitive.
The highway out of Santa Ana will be watched. Should the attempt to escape north-

BRINGING GOOD WILL TO PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS

This scene soon will be enacted, with the harbor of Havana, Cuba, as the locale. President Coolidge is going to Havana on the battleship Texas, shown above, for the Pan-American Congress beginning Jan. 16. Colonel Charles Lindbergh in his Spirit of St. Louis, will fly to Havana from Panama in time for the convention. Both Coolidge and Lindbergh are shown wearing their best "good will" smiles. (Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

flee south he will be apprehended at La Jolla.

Not more than 100 crews of such officers will be needed to cover the entire state, Morrill said. When the entire system is put into effect, it will be virtually impossible for a criminal to slip through the dragnet.

Every applicable device known to modern criminology will be employed, if the state legislature approves the "printer telegraph" system to aid the mantraps, printer telegraphs, or automatic telegraphic typewriters, such as now are used in United Press bureaus and many large newspapers, would connect police departments of larger cities, making instant transmission of descriptions, information and the latest bulletins on the manhunt available.

Morrill's plans for the use of the printer telegraph circuit, which have already been approved by the peace officers association of California, will cost approximately $100,000 a year to maintain the service 24 hours a day.

DODSON SENDS GREETINGS TO
LEGIONNAIRES

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—
Pointing out to the three hundred odd units of the American Legion in California the work which is ahead of them during the present year and requesting the ex-service men and women of his organization to devote themselves to the problem of rehabilitation of the disabled veterans of the World war, State Commander Phil Dodson of the Legion has sent the following message to his comrades:

"This is a two-fold problem:
one of rehabilitating devastated flesh and spirit; and the other, rehabilitating the individual into a self-supporting citizen. As time goes on relentlessly fast, the burden of caring for the widows and orphans is becoming more acute.
The centralization of our great endowment fund is not solving the problem.

"California demands, and should have ready acquiescence in, the de-centralization of its portion of this vast fund for expenditure within our borders that we may care for these unfortunate children of our buddies as we should like to have them cared for.

"The local problem will be community betterment, in which every Post, large or small, can become a very vital factor. Our interest and leadership in the patriotic occasions of our calendar year merit our utmost attention. A greater interest in public schools will be very remunerative in the graduation of a better citizenship among our children."

BAPTISTS WILL HOLD MEETING IN SANTA ANA

Delegates from Orange and Los Angeles county churches will meet here Thursday of next week for a Bible and missionary methods conference, according to an announcement made today by the Rev. Herman J. Powell, who is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

The conference is the auspices of the Southern California Baptist convention, and will be held in the First Baptist church of Santa Ana. Dr. Otto S. Russell, formerly the local Baptist pastor, will represent the state convention and will have general direction of the conference. He will also deliver one of the leading addresses on the program.

The churches embraced in the membership of the conference include the 12 Baptist churches of Orange county, together with four in Los Angeles county. Large delegations from Anaheim, Orange, Garden Grove, Fullerton and Whittier are expected. The quota of representation fixed by the convention office is not less than one-fifth of the membership of each church. If this quota is reached the total attendance at the conference will be 700.

The speakers for the conference include a select team of experts in missionary and administrative work, drawn from the east and from foreign lands. The local committee of arrangements consists of the Rev. Herman J. Powell, chairman; Mrs. Mac Robbins, Miss Gertrude Minor, Mrs. Nancy Runyan, Arch M. Robinson and Dr. William Ashmore.

FRENCH PLAN TAX ON ENGLISH SIGNS

PARIS, Jan. 11.—The Americanization of Paris, which began many years ago, is proceeding so rapidly that some Parisians are becoming alarmed. At the same time they are inclined to turn it to profitable account for the city by taxing commercial notices, street signs and similar publicity text when it appears in a foreign language.

Practically the whole of such publicity is in English. It is true that the American or Briton walking through the principal streets and boulevards of Paris would scarcely realize he was not at home if his eye did not sometimes seek a rest from the unending succession of shop signs and roof announcements—blazing at night in multi-colored letters or fire like a miniature Broadway—and all in English.

The cinemas shoot out in dancing electric translations with the enlightening information in English sub-titles, while the coiffures and hairdressers seek to attract American custom.

The number of genuine American business or producers advertising their wares is considerable and strikes the most particular note in Paris. But to them must be added the innumerable French tradesmen or manufacturers, who in order to be in fashion also do their street advertising in English—or in what they believe to be English. This especially arouses the ire of those Frenchmen who hate to see any change in their city. They rightly complain that most of such publicity is neither English nor French, but a barbarous jargon invented by people who think their shop sign is in English because they have put the adjective before the substantive and replaced the particle "de" by the "S."

One of the Paris municipal councillors, Fernand Laurent, has taken the lead in the campaign against this form of Americanization in the French capital.

"We won't be unreasonable," he says. "We admitted the Anglo-Saxon sporting vocabulary into our tongue and it has even, by come to stay. That is good, but don't let us tolerate the invasion of Paris by this glaring publicity in this foreign language which often has not even the merit of being correct."

EXCHANGE CLUB TO HOLD BALL ON FEBRUARY 3

Plans are being worked out today for the inaugural ball of the Santa Ana Exchange club, which will take place February 3. The date was announced yesterday by Charles Swanner, chairman of the committee for the affair, when the club members gathered at the weekly luncheon. The Woman's clubhouse in Orange has been selected for the occasion.

Following this announcement, the Santa Ana Concert company, presenting four local artists who are well known in musical circles here, gave the gathering a program of instrumental and vocal numbers which received hearty applause.

Miss Ruth Armstrong, pianist, Miss Georgia Belle Walton, violinist, and Edward Burns, cellist, opened the entertainment with "At the Brook," following it with "Can't You Hear Me Callin', Caroline."

Miss Cecil Fross Willis sang "Smilin' Through" and "Keep on Hopin'" accompanied by Miss Armstrong, while Miss Walton played two violin numbers arranged by Fritz Kreisler, "A Spanish Dance" and "Fresquita."

Miss Willis sang "My Blue Heaven," while Burns closed a successful program with two cello solos, "Dance Rustique" and "A Dream." He was accompanied by Miss Armstrong.

The company will start an eastern tour January 23, traveling through the middle west to Chicago.

CAPITAL'S HALL OF FAME FOUND OVER CROWDED

By HARRY W. FRANTZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The threatened overcrowding of Statuary hall, pantheon of national heroes, was called to congressional attention when the Territory of Hawaii filed legislative resolutions with congress asking that the privilege of entrance be accorded to statues of Sanford Ballard Dole and Prince Jonah Kihio Kalaniana'ole.

Special authorization for the recognition of Hawaii's great men would be required because under the existing United States statutes, as well as established custom, only the states have been permitted to furnish statues.

The United Press correspondent encountered sympathy among congressmen at the idea of recognizing Hawaii's heroes, and it appears probable that the necessary authorization will be granted in due course but the physical problem of space is likely incidentally to be discussed.

An official document soon to be published will suggest three possible means for more worthy accommodation of the statues of the nation's great. One suggestion is that the display of the statues, now confined to a single hall, may be extended to the adjacent corridors of the capitol. A second is that a crypt of large dimensions be built in the capitol, and a third that a separate edifice be erected. If the latter proposal should be favored by congress, it has been suggested that a separate room be accorded to each state and territory, where that state might display one or two statues, as it chose.

The present Statuary hall is the room formerly occupied by the house of representatives. It was vacated in December, 1927. In January, 1864, Representative J. S. Morrill, of Vermont, introduced a resolution proposing that it be used as a hall for statuary. This led to passage of a law on July 2, 1864, authorizing the president to invite all the states to furnish statues in marble or bronze, not exceeding two in number, "of deceased persons who have been citizens thereof, and illustrious for their historic renown for distinguished civic or military services, such as each state may deem to be worthy of national commemoration."

Such invitations were promptly issued, but five years elapsed before the installation of the first statue, that of Nathaniel Greene, presented by the state of Rhode Island in 1870. The second statue, that of Roger Williams was presented by the same state in 1872.

When the law was adopted there were only 35 states in the union, and it seemed unlikely that the problem of congestion would arise. At the present time there are 53 statues in the hall, the last to enter being that of Alexander Hamilton Stevens, of Georgia, vice president of the confederacy, of whom a statue in marble by Gutzon Borglum was unveiled since the present session of congress convened.

TO EXPERIMENT WITH FRUIT AT STATE STATION

By CAPITOL NEWS BUREAU
Special to the Santa Ana Register

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 11.—A practical fruit experiment station, the dream of California orchardists and horticultural experts for many years past, will soon be a reality.

This became known today with the announcement by Lyman King, chief of the division of service and supply of the state department of finance, that a state experiment station will be established on 13 acres of orchard land held by the Women's Relief Corps Home, midway between San Jose and Santa Clara.

Legislation was enacted by the 1927 legislature providing the machinery for establishing the station and the Santa Clara valley site has been obtained under lease by the University of California from the directors of the relief corps home.

The five-year lease is now before Attorney General Webb for his approval as to form, King stated, and work will be started in erecting a laboratory on the site as soon as possible. By spring, it is expected, the station will be fully established and ready to inaugurate its post and disease control experiments.

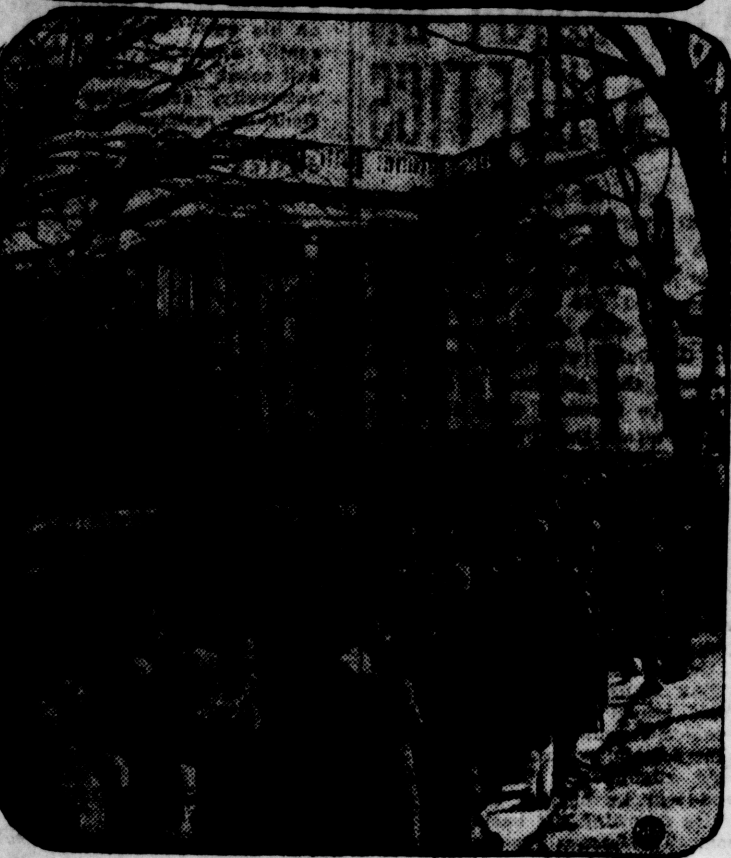

King made his announcement of final approval by interested parties of plans for the creation of the deciduous fruit experiment depot following his return from San Jose, where he conferred with Senator Sanborn Young of Los Gatos, the original sponsor of locating the station on the relief corps property. Senator Young assisted in completing the negotiations with the directors of the home, King stated.

Technically, the state has maintained a fruit experiment station for a number of years, but actually the station was a student training school for the University of California and of no practical value to the fruit growers, according to Senator Young and other backers of the new project. The old experiment station, it is alleged, was conducted on a city lot and the Berkeley campus.

King, who undertook the work of securing a site at the instance of A. R. Heron, state director of finance, declared that the station should prove of tremendous value to the deciduous fruit growers in determining means to wipe out plant pests that menace the industry and in controlling tree disease.

TO OPEN DRIVE FOR FINISHING HIGHWAY WORK

By CLEM WHITAKER
Staff Correspondent, Santa Ana Register

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 11.—California's 1928 highway building program, marking active initiation of a 10-year drive to complete the greatest paved road system in the nation, calls for the expenditure of approximately $25,000,000, of which $7,000,000 will go into new primary roads.

The great New Year "good roads" schedule, it was learned today, will be submitted in detail to the state highway commission here Thursday by Bert B. Meek, director of the state department of public works, and will embrace Meek's recommendations on all 1928 new construction projects.

At the same session of the highway board, which will continue through Friday with a night session at Stockton Friday evening, Director Meek plans to discuss the proposed Oroville-Quincy highway project, but will not be ready to make announcement of his recommendations. This highway, when completed, would afford a new inter-state connection with Reno.

The 1928 program, as shaped by Meek, will usher in the "pay as you go" financing plan for new construction on full-year schedule and will inaugurate the race to forge the broken links in a 6500-mile highway system—a task that will require at least ten years and the expenditure of more than $150,000,000.

Once launched, the big road construction campaign will be carried forth rapidly, according to Meek, tentative plans already having been formulated to duplicate the $25,000,000 outlay this year in 1929. During the two years, not less than $15,000,000 will be devoted to building new roads, the balance going toward maintenance and reconstruction of existing routes.

Indicative that California's highway outlook has broadened during the years, as well as its roads, Director Meek asserted that the sum proposed for expenditure this year exceeds by $7,000,000 the total amount that it was believed would be required to complete the entire highway system in 1929.

"It is a significant fact," he affirmed, "that California is preparing to spend a larger sum on its state highways in 1928 than the entire bond issue of $38,000,000 voted in November, 1926 for these roads."

"It is also significant as showing the growing appreciation in California of the value of good roads that the general opinion at the time the $15,000,000 bond issue was voted was that that sum would complete California's state highway system. Today no one thinks for a moment that the approximate expenditure of $38,000,000 on state highways in 1928 will even begin to satisfy the ultimate highway needs of the state.

"The reason that the people of California are today willing to spend $25,000,000 a year on state highways is because they know that there is a tremendous balance on the credit side of California's highway ledger. In this profit every man, woman and child, every county, community and city and village shares."

Meek's apportionment of the projects in his 1928 budget, it was indicated, calls for practically a 50-50 split between the southern and northern counties, in accordance with the Bred three-cent gasoline tax and allocation act, under which the work is being financed.

40 YEARS TO MAKE NEW MAP OF STARS

OXFORD, England, Jan. 11.—Forty years to draw a map—that is the meaning of the completion of a gigantic task undertaken two generations ago by the Oxford and Greenwich observatories.

Fifteen million stars have been photographed, to make a map of the heavens, only 6000 of which are visible to the naked eye. Some are visible to the naked eye, some are visible to the naked eye, some are visible to the naked eye.

Because some of the stars displayed motion in the photographs, astronomers here and in London have formed the conclusion that many of the faint or lesser stars are comparatively near the earth, and not at enormous distances as was hitherto believed.

Nineteen observatories, in various parts of the world, have cooperated in the stupendous task. They are at Melbourne, Perth, Cape of Good Hope, Hyderabad, Heisingford, Catania, Cordoba, San Fernando, Rome, Algiers, Potsdam, Bordeaux, Sydney, Tauba, Toulouse, Santiago, Greenwich, Paris and Oxford.

Stars only up to the 14th magnitude have been photographed. Thirty years' additional work would be required to include the mapping of fainter stars.

The heavenly charts are expected to be of great value to the astronomer of the future, because they will enable him to tell how much a star has moved in relation to its position.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Gov. Al Smith still is shopping down south for a running-mate—or, at least, his friends are.

One hears that Josephus Daniels was not exactly haughty when it was suggested that he might have the Democratic vice presidential nomination if Smith were nominated, but when Tammany heard that the nomination of Uncle Josephus might completely ruin Al's hopes of carrying his home state of North Carolina, one didn't hear much more about Uncle Josephus.

He is very far outside the dominant Democratic organization of North Carolina, controlled by Senator Simmons, which hates Smith and Uncle Josephus with almost equal fervor. So the Smith firm is still shopping and is said to have made eyes at several southern senators and governors, some of whom may be in the market, but none of whom want to break the news to the folks at home.

Hoover Looks Over East
Mr. Hoover, as his strength increases, must be doing some thinking along the same lines. Whereas the Smith people are figuring just now that the second man ought to come from the hostile south, Uncle Hoover is supposed to be looking around in the east.

He might pick Senator George Higgins Moses, of New Hampshire, except that the capture of New Hampshire won't be so tremendously important in November.

He has doubtless looked about New York state only to find no Republican who might otherwise be available who hasn't been thoroughly trounced by Al Smith and his gang.

He might try Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts, but Fuller made many people sore in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, and we've got to get the senate onto the ticket somewhere.

Governor Fisher, of Pennsylvania, would like the job, but Hoover would carry Pennsylvania anyway—although some sort of a pre-convention deal might be made. It may even be that Uncle Hoover would appreciate some suggestions.

Read in Sorry State

Surely no candidate is in a sorrier pickle at this moment than Senator James Adair Read, of Missouri. Senator Read seems almost in the position of a gentleman hanging onto the rail of a burning ship with the sharks waiting for him in the water below, insofar as his chances for nomination are concerned.

Of course, the U. S. cavalry may come dashing over the water to rescue our hero at the last moment, but one fears not.

If Senator Jim has a substantial bloc of delegates at the Democratic convention, they are likely to for Al Smith and if Senator Jim handed them over they might very easily nominate Al. But if Jim were to hang onto them, Al would hardly be likely to forgive him and then furnish the strength needed to nominate Jim.

Al and Jim may have a working agreement—although probably not—but someone will have to take the short end.

Corn Harvested For Grain Shows Large Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Farmers raised 2,230,343,000 bushels of corn for grain out of a crop of 2,786,288,000 bushels produced in 1927, the agriculture department has announced.

It was estimated that of the 98,914,000 acres of corn grown last year, 85,512,000 acres were harvested for grain; 4,347,000 acres were cut for silage, and 11,044,000 acres utilized for other purposes.

Production of silage in 1927 was estimated at 20,312,000 tons, compared with 29,753,000 tons in 1926. The department said the quantity of corn harvested for grain was 3.9 per cent larger than the 1926 harvest, making the average yield of corn for grain 27.8 bushels.

TRANSOCEANIC AIR LINER TO FLY IN SUMMER

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Eclipsing the fantasies of Jules Verne or H. G. Wells, Britain's mammoth air liner, the R100, is scheduled to take the air early next summer.

A series of short trial flights will be its christening, and then it is planned to fly it to New York, where it is proposed to make a descent for the purpose of embarking passengers for the return journey to Britain.

Spectacular Flight
The journey will undoubtedly be the most spectacular yet undertaken in the history of modern aviation, and the Americans who have already booked reservations will participate in an inaugural flight destined to be the forerunner of a regular passenger carrying airship service between the Old and New worlds.

Americans who have the opportunity of viewing the R100 when it arrives in New York will be literally astounded at its construction.

Its appearance gives the idea of a floating miniature skyscraper. It completely dwarfs any previous aircraft. It is 714 feet long and 180 feet high. Four stories provide accommodation for 100 passengers and a crew of 50.

Electrically Lighted
Comparable to a modern hotel the ship is warmed and lighted by electricity, which also serves to cook the food. One deck contains a dining-room with accommodation for 50 passengers, kitchen, and two- and four-berth cabins.

The dining-room can be converted into a dance hall, and spectators can be seated on lounges on a balcony above and be able to watch passengers dancing at an altitude of thousands of feet. Broadcast wireless and gramophones will provide the music.

The safety of passengers is a feature in the construction. The walls of the cabins consist of tough fabric and fireproof paper. Beds are made of duralumin, a light and strong metal of which the vessel is built.

Two wide verandahs round the entire circumference of this flying hotel, enclosed with sliding glass windows, are large enough to provide simultaneous accommodation for all the passengers. There they will be able to view the wonders of the countryside and the ocean from the air.

Rolls Royce Motors
The ship will be driven by six Rolls Royce Condor engines, and each of 700 horse-power coupled up to six immense propellers 17 feet feet in length. The cruising speed, limited at 75 miles an hour with a top speed of 83 m.p.h.

Thirty-five fuel tanks are incorporated, each able to carry one ton of gasoline.

The gasbags, each of 50,000 cubic feet capacity, are the largest ever made, and were constructed at the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen. Despite all these wonders of modern science the structure only weighs 83 tons, leaving 73 tons of lift for passengers, crew, fuel and cargo. It is hoped to carry ten tons of mail on each journey. Over 5,000,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas will be necessary to lift the mammoth.

It will be equal in dimensions to a 50,000-ton battleship, and yet when fully loaded will only weigh 158 tons.

Accommodation for passengers and crew have been built in the hull of the ship, while in the basement of the control and navigation rooms are housed.

To Cost $2,250,000
This flying machine will be capable of cruising 4500 miles without refueling. When completed it will have cost $2,250,000. It looks the embodiment of grace.

Britain's last word in airship construction. Designs for another vessel are already proceeding which will be as far in advance of the R100 as the R100 is in front of obsolete airships like the R33.

Com. C. D. Burney, a director of the Airship Guarantee company, designers and builders of the R100, in a statement to the press, declared that airships similar in type to the R100 could operate a 48-hour trans-Atlantic service for a single fare of $500 and make a good profit.

He forecasts a boom in trans-Atlantic airship travel when all the possibilities become realized.

VATICAN TROUBLE HEALS

ROME, Jan. 11.—The difficulties between the Vatican and Czechoslovakia, caused two years ago by the John Huss celebrations, which resulted in the rupture of diplomatic relations, have been settled. # Magnesia Best For Your Indigestion

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, put out foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bismarck Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bismarck Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity; sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bismarck Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.—Adv.

ORNSBY TRADE 16 SURPRISE N B. B. WORLD

an open market.
McGraw and Charley Stoneham, owner of the Giants, issued a statement to the effect that a deal was put through "for the good of the club."
Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, was elated. With Dr. Edward Farrell at shortstop and Hornsby at second, the Braves will have one of the best lineups combinations in baseball. That was why the Giants decided to part company with Hornsby, whom they obtained from St. Louis a year ago and who was regarded as the most valuable player in the club. "If you may never be known," as a result of the trade it is the Giants will use Andy Cohen, the Jewish infielder from St. Louis, who did so well in the International league last season, at second base.

ORNSBY IS BIT MYSTIFIED BY BASEBALL TRADE
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11.—A bit mystified, Rogers Hornsby today accepted his transfer from captaincy of the New York Giants to second baseman of the Boston Braves with the simple remark: "That's all right. You can only play nine innings in any one game for any one team. My contract must be taken over by Boston so that's the difference."
The former Cardinals' manager, who piloted St. Louis to its first world's championship added, however: "Since I was traded from here to New York I got to expect almost anything. You never know about such things in baseball. Some might trade me off to some other club today."

Hornsby indignantly denied the rumors in sport discussions here at his trade to Boston bore any connection with a race betting bet for $90,000 damages he recently defended successfully against Frank L. Moore, Kentucky racing commissioner.
"The only bad feature of the deal," he said, "is being transferred to a second division team which will have to be built up. The Giants have a good chance of the pennant in 1928 and of course there was the prospect of being in the 'split.'"
"But Judge Fuchs and I are old friends, and I'll give him the I've got."
Hornsby admitted that his contract with the Giants, calling for an annual salary "of about $40,000," had a year to run. He explained that under the trade that contract would have to be assumed by the Braves.

ORNSBY TO ASK NEW CONTRACT IN BOSTON
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 11.—Rogers Hornsby, baseball star, today took to protect his equity in the game.
Summarily traded from captaincy of the New York Giants to the Boston Braves, Hornsby declared: "My contract, signed with me, has a year to run, but I want more protection than that. I shall ask the Boston management for a term contract for at least two more years."

SPORTSMATTER BY FRANK GETTY UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

In another month, the first of the major league baseball squads will be heading south and west for spring training. Sports pages will record the plaudits and the optimism of the new manager.
The annual salary squabbles will commence, and contracts, signed and unsigned, will pass between owner and player.
What is all the old familiar pre-season ballyhoo going to lead to this year?
For one thing probably another record season for attendance. The national pastime's popularity in many cities is limited only by the capacity of its parks.
Both President Heydler of the National league and President Barnard of the American are well pleased with the "healthy condition" of baseball this year. The child should produce a lot of dividends for its step-parents.

One thing missing thus far this year is scandal. Last winter at this time we had Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker weeping crocodile tears over their disgrace and Rogers Hornsby shouting that he wouldn't sell his pretty St. Louis stock certificates for any reasonable amount of money. "Swedes" Rieberg was throwing mud at the White Sox of years ago, and someone even went back and dug up a lot of scandal about "Casey" at the bat.
All this old baseball a lot of good. It started the prospective cash customers talking. Scandal, you know, never kept anyone away from the turnstile. Tell the paying guests the game is likely to be crooked and they'll crowd in to see how it's done.
Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker made more money than ever before in their lives because of a reported meeting under the grandstand many seasons ago.
Nineteen twenty-eight needs a "Dutch" Leonard.

Several new managers will try their wings this year, among them Roger Peckinpah, Jack Slatery and Burt Shotton.
With the material at his disposal, any one of the three will accomplish a baseball miracle merely by getting his club to the top of the second division.
One can look for improvement this year from the Cincinnati Reds, the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago White Sox. The New York Giants are another club that is going to be harder to beat.
The National league race should be another thriller, with the St. Louis Cardinals improved as a team by the fact that Bob O'Farrell now can direct all his attention and energy towards playing ball. The Cubs have only to plug an infield gap to be more dangerous than ever, what with "Kiki" Guyler added to an already high class outfield. The Reds, under Jack Hendricks, will be in there fighting and with a few additions to his pitching and receiving departments, John McGraw has the Giants just about ready to grab another pennant.
The Pittsburgh Pirates, strengthened by the addition of "Sparky" Adams, who may prove the first real second baseman Barney Dreyfuss has acquired in a decade, will have their work cut out for them if they are to repeat their victory of 1927.
They say the Pirates have found another Waner boy in the wilds of Oklahoma, however, and if it's true it should just about break up the league.

In the American league, from this distance, one can see only the New York Yankees.

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 11.—Even experienced fishermen have their off days. Yesterday, when local fishermen set their net around a big school of small fish, they fully expected to secure hundreds of the fish. When they pulled the net in they discovered that the sole occupants were two large seals. Apparently the fish were small enough to escape through the seine.

Some 50 fishing boats operated off Newport Beach yesterday, their presence attracting hundreds of onlookers.

Observes Birthday

ORANGE, Jan. 11.—When Judge H. E. Hart, of La Habra, returned yesterday to the justice court here, where he is presiding in Judge Ingle's absence, he was in a very happy mood. This happiness was not due to the fact that no transgressors of the law awaited his coming but was rather because the day before the Judge celebrated his 52nd birthday and found himself awaiting him on his return to La Habra, old friends and neighbors from Stockton, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stevens. Mr. Stevens is a well known bee man of the state, having 1000 swarms of bees.

NEWPORT C. C.
PLANS EASTER
CELEBRATION

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 11.—The Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a big Easter celebration this year and will actively enter the campaign for the improvement of Central avenue. It was decided at a meeting of directors here last night.

The Easter celebration, in charge of G. C. MacLeod, secretary, will feature canoe and motor boat races, swimming events and other features. It is hoped to combine the outdoor events with a big dance to be staged in the new $125,000 ball room being constructed by the Balboa Amusement company. The ballroom will be completed by that time, it is reported.

MacLeod was instructed by directors of the chamber of commerce to secure information regarding the widening of Central avenue and to place the correct information on the matter in the hands of all voters in the district. It is proposed to widen Central avenue from Alvarado to B streets by removal of one set of Pacific Electric tracks. A bond issue for the improvement will be voted upon February 14.

The local chamber also actively entered the campaign for the Century boulevard to Orange county from Los Angeles and decided to take an active part in securing the continuance of South Main street of Santa Ana into Corona Del Mar. SEAL BEACH WANTS
OLD NAME STRICKEN

SEAL BEACH, Jan. 11.—The old name of Bay City, which once designated Seal Beach, is to be stricken forever from the records, even in reference to the schools, if action is taken by the county supervisors at their next meeting on a petition submitted by the citizens requesting this alteration.

Hereafter the school will bear the name of Seal Beach grammar school and the Bay City school district, established in February, 1906, with an attendance of 14, will be only a matter of history.

At the time of the school organization, men with families were given preference in order to bring up the school enrollment to a point where an allowance would be made by the state for its maintenance. The first year cost the state and district $740.

From an attendance of 14 the school enrollment has increased to 200. Seven teachers are now employed.

2ND READING
FOR BILLBOARD
AND PLAN LAW

ORANGE, Jan. 11.—The second reading of the planning commission and billboard ordinance was part of the business transacted by the city council at the meeting yesterday afternoon, the meeting having been postponed from last week owing to the death of the mother of one of the councilmen.

The city planning commission of six members will be appointed by Mayor Stevenson on February 7 with the approval of the council. The three ex-officio members, in accordance with the state law, will be the mayor, the city attorney and the city engineer.

A representative of the Foster and Kleiser billboard company was present, bringing before the council the number of square feet in billboards owned by his company in the city of Orange. This was computed to be 10,050 square feet.

The council decided on one cent a square foot to be levied on billboards as a building permit, making $2.50 for a panel of 250 square feet. One-half cent a square foot will cover the city license fee on billboards already erected, the council decided.

City licenses on a number of businesses were reduced. Those on feed stores and lumber yards were reduced to $7.50. The Rochester hotel and the Orange Inn had their licenses reduced to $2. Pool halls are to be taxed $2 for a first table and 50 cents for every other table installed.

A petition was presented by a number of pool hall owners, asking that minors under 21 be allowed to play pocket billiards. The petition was not granted as the state law provides that minors over 18, having a signed permit from their parents, may play if they wish.

Taxes on the Church of Christ on Lemon street were canceled as the property is used only for religious services.

The matter of insurance for damage done by city water mains was considered.

Bids were opened for cast iron pipe to be used in construction work on Collins avenue. The order was awarded to B. Nichols, of Los Angeles, who is to furnish the city with 200 feet of cast iron pipe at 48 cents a foot at a total cost of $960.

The board ordered that a stop sign be placed at the intersection of Palm and Tustin avenues.

A committee of four, from the Woman's club, the Business and Professional Women's club, the P. E. O. and the Girl Scouts Community committee, presented a request to the board asking permission for the Girl Scouts to use the American Legion rooms as headquarters when the rooms are vacated by the Legion. The Girl Scouts were represented by Mrs. William Prentiss Jr., Miss Mary Hawkins, Mrs. Clara Vasey and Mrs. H. Gelpman. It was pointed out that the Orange troop was the first Girl Scout troop in the county, starting here with eight girls and now numbering 107 members, and that it is a patriotic organization. The request will be considered at a future meeting.

The superintendent of the water works, W. J. Richards, reported that the new 20-inch city well was completed and asked that the work be accepted. Plans for an electrically driven motor to run the well were discussed.

City Engineer C. C. Bonebrake reported considerable protection work done on West Santiago creek. Chief of Police Richards reported 23 arrests made in the month of December and the fire chief reported a like number of fires in the past year.

City Clerk Cal J. Lester reported a balance on hand in the city treasury of $122,826.22. Warrants drawn in the month of December amounted to $17,124.71.

The council ordered the city clerk to advertise for bids for city gasoline and for the disposal of city garbage, bids to be opened February 7, as the present contract expires on February 15. At the present time a Fullerton concern is furnishing gas at 15 1/2 cents a gallon.

The council ordered a free building permit and free water connection be given the American Legion for the new building now under construction.

Water receipts during the month of December were $2310.97.

And on Monday evening the fourth anniversary of that first gathering was celebrated with a turkey dinner at Rose Arbor Inn, with Mrs. Robert Wilson of 1406 South Van Ness avenue, as hostess.

At the conclusion of the dinner, the party transferred its interest to the West Coast-Walker theater where the Kolb and Dill show was enjoyed.

Pleasant Surprise Is Planned to Honor Mrs. Blower

Friendly neighbors conspired in a plan to honor Mrs. Philip Blower on her birthday, by surprising her at her home, 1720 Poinsettia street, and staging a most enjoyable party, as an event of recent date.

The merry-makers assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Schick on East Seventeenth street, going thence in a body to the Blower home, where Mr. Blower, aware of the plans, had managed that all was in readiness for their coming. Games and contests provided a pleasant evening, which reached its climax when the contents of the baskets brought by the guests, were placed on a table, and everyone enjoyed the sandwiches, cake, coffee, nuts and candies thus displayed.

Mr. Blower had thoughtfully arranged for a great birthday cake which completed the menu. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Blower and the young people of the home, Miss Irene, Elbert, Albert, Fayetta, Floyd and Ralph Blower; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. ## La Habra Couple Wedded in Santa Ana

Two young people of La Habra, Miss Beulah Elder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Elder of that community, and Alvin Burgess, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Burgess of Stoutland, Mo., were wedded yesterday in this city, leaving at once for Ventura where they will spend their honeymoon.

The bride wore powder-blue embroidered crepe de chine for her wedding gown. There were no attendants, the happy pair being accompanied only by Mr. and Mrs. Elder and Mr. and Mrs. James Showler.

While the Elders have lived in La Habra for several years, they recently made an extended visit in Stoutland where Miss Elder attended school, there meeting Mr. Burgess. Upon returning to California, the young man accompanied them, and yesterday's wedding was the crown of the romance. Upon returning from Ventura, Mr. Burgess and his bride will live in La Habra.

SILK SUIT'S WINTER VOGUE

A red Canton silk coat and red chiffon collar and stripes on a pink blouse all emphasize the upper part of the three-piece suit at the right; above, an ensemble of lemon and orange-amber Rajah silk.

By HENRI BENDEL
FOR NEA Service
NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The silk suit is experiencing an unusual vogue for wintry months, right now.

Of course many of them are designed for Palm Beach wear and have light colors that suggest southern skies. But there is a place for the silk suit right at home in the Northland now, too. Worn under a fur coat, it is tailored and neat. With its coat removed, it becomes informal attire suited to most afternoon affairs.

A Spring Vogue
The silks that are used most for suits are the pebbly silks, such as Rashaana, Canton and the corded or pebbled Rajahs. This type of silk is staging a come-back in the closing of this year that promises to insure a spring vogue. Some backed, which I should say, just about doubles their chances at popularity.

Of the silk suits, the most noticeable things are the way the predominating color, or the most elaborate decoration, takes the eye to the waist portion of the suit. If there is a vivid spot, it is apt to be a scarlet coat, a striped blouse or the like. While the skirt remains demurely in the background.

Box Pleats' Fullness
This is illustrated in the one suit I show today, of pink and red figured Canton, red georgette and red Canton. Its skirt is of the pink material with a slight figured lined traced in red. Little box pleats stitched below the hips insure fullness.

The sleeveless blouse of pink georgette has stripes of red georgette stitched across it. Its collar is of the red. And the hip-length, three-button jacket is of red Canton, pink-lined. All the color seems concentrated in the upper portion of this costume and a red and pink felt hat appropriately tops it.

Appealing Colors
A delightful combination of color gives the other costume an unusual appeal. The one-piece frock of Rajah silk is of a soft new yellow, almost lemon shaded. With it a rich orange-amber color is used to pipe the tucks of the dress, edge its jabot tie and fashion the seven-eighths coat.

This coat is extremely smart both in line and new length. It is made of a corded crisp silk of the Rajah family, with two inverted tucks on each shoulder for fullness and long, loose-cuffed sleeves. The back has four tiny flattened tucks coming from the flat neckline.

Worn with this is a new mushroom Bank in the soft lemon shade, with hand tracing in the deep orange shade, making a checked pattern.

Figured Silks Subdued
Figured silks are coming in again. This time they are more subdued, however. The splashy flowers of last season grow dainty and petite in the new prints. Many, many prints employ concentric polka dots, or geometric lines in color instead of flowers.

A three-piece suit I have made for Palm Beach uses black with rose and reds worked in tiny flowers. The little blouse is of the figured material, as is the skirt, while the jacket is plain in color, trimmed with a yoke front and back of the figured silk. A plain hat in then we chouchoute straw tops it.

Ebell Activities For Current Week, Are Highly Varied

Mrs. Valley's Talk
Again were members of Santa Ana Ebell society, privileged to hear a most entertaining resume of the important books of the month, when Mrs. Jack Valley gave one of her trenchant "book talks" Monday afternoon in connection with the January business meeting of the society, held in Ebell auditorium.

Mrs. F. C. Coulter, presiding with her usual grace and dignity, called for reports from the various committee chairmen and section leaders, all of which indicated the activities of the past few weeks, including the social affairs sponsored by the organization during the holidays, and called attention to the treats in store for members in the remaining winter and early spring months. These include the lecture by Richard Halliburton on the afternoon of January 31, when members will be admitted upon presentation of membership cards, while non-members may secure seats at a nominal price.

Mrs. Valley, who took the platform for the remainder of the afternoon, held the close attention of the clubwomen with her spirited reviews of various important books, choosing particularly, the significant "National Character" of Ernest Barker, Stephen McKenna's "Dus Reckoning," Helen Woodbury's "Uncertain Treasure," and Mateel Howe Farnham's "Rebellion," were also discussed.

"A Short History of the Drama" by Martha Bellinger; "Seven Strings to a Lyre" by Schermerhorn; Brakine's "Adam and Eve"; Eugene O'Neill's "Lazarus Laughed," and "Third Book of Modern Verse," the Rittenhouse anthology, followed, with glimpses at Countee Cullen's anthology of Negro verse, "Caroling Dusk"; De Chambrun's "Shakespeare: Actor-Poet"; "Up the Years from Bloomsbury" by George Arliss; "My Life" by Isadora Duncan; "Pages from My Life" by Feodor Chaliapin; and as a final review, Peggy Wood's "Blindfold Gypsy," all presented in brief but illuminating manner.

Travelers' Luncheon
Traveling "The Royal Road to Romance" as outlined by young Richard Halliburton in his delightful book by that name, members of Ebell's first travel section prefaced their book journey recently, by the friendly hospitality dispensed by Mrs. William E. Otis and Mrs. W. L. Grubb, in the form of a luncheon in the beautiful Otis home on North Main street.

Eleven section members assembled to enjoy the pleasant affair planned by the two hostesses, and all were seated at one table in the spacious dining-room. A mingling of blue and yellow gave a distinctive touch to the table appointments, with the deep sapphire tints manifested in crystal candlesticks, goblets and other table appointments, while yellow tapers and a low bowl of perfect yellow roses completed the charming picture.

After a leisurely enjoyment of the menu planned by the two hostesses, attention was turned to the Halliburton book, re-read in anticipation of hearing the youthful globe-trotter when he appears in the Ebell auditorium on the afternoon of January 31. Members took turns about reading his adventures, for the remainder of the afternoon.

Those present in addition to the hostesses, Mrs. Otis and Mrs. Grubb, were Mrs. A. W. Bishop, Mrs. H. Clement Dawes, Mrs. J. E. Gowen, Mrs. M. F. Heathman, Mrs. C. S. Kendall, Mrs. Stephen Ross, Mrs. William S. Smart, Mrs. I. W. Van Cleave, Mrs. E. B. Smith, Mrs. George S. Smith and Mrs. Lynn Shaw.

H Pagliaesi
Although Ebell's music section members have been privileged to hear many fine programs during their year of meeting in the morning of each Ebell business day, all were agreed that the climax of enjoyment was reached Monday in the presentation of Leoncavallo's "Il Pagliacci," (the first act) by Marie Bishop, U. Holmes Bishop and Neal Pritchett.

The section laughed its season most completely in the early act, with a musical program by Mrs. Kate McCullough, pianist, Vera Kennon and Holly Leah Vial, soloists, who reviewed "Madame Butterfly" as a contribution from the Orange County School of Fine Arts, Miss Kennon singing the lovely aria, "One Fine Day."

The level reached at that time, has been maintained in successive programs, and the section is one of the most flourishing in the society, and always open to new members. In Monday's program opening at 11 o'clock, Mrs. Bishop sang the part of "Nedda" with Mr. Pritchett singing "Cio-Cio" and Mr. Bishop presenting the two roles of "Tonio" and "Boris," and also giving a review of the opera and its action. He declared that it was the only Leoncavallo composition that had lived, but was so beautiful that it was sufficient in itself to establish his fame. Added interest was given he declared, by Caruso and Scotti, in their interpretations of the roles.

The three, Mrs. Bishop, Mr. Bishop and Mr. Pritchett, then presented the first act, not only musically, but dramatically as well, acting it out in realistic manner, to the enthusiastic appreciation of the section. Leon Tammara took at the piano, furnished the artistic presentation.

The section's business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Harry N. Hayes, vice president; who will serve in place of Mrs. Whipple, now absent on a tour of the world. Mrs. Victor Montgomery was advanced to the vice presidency, to aid Mrs. Hayes.

The session closed with the enjoyable luncheon served by Mrs. Victor Emerson Marks, Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. A. A. Schlamman.

Santa Anans Win Grove Party Prizes
Santa Anans were playing in luck at the card party given Monday evening in the Woman's Civic clubhouse at Garden Grove, for first prizes in bridge were awarded Mrs. E. G. Major and T. F. Ham, while second prizes were secured by Mrs. W. H. Mize and H. F. Towner, all of this city.

However attractive prizes in 500 went to other communities, for first place was held by Mrs. Mae Stroud and Gus Ward, both of Bolin, and second by Mrs. Lola Kimball and John Gibson of Cypress. There were over 100 persons in attendance at the card party, which was one of a series, the next one to be given on Monday evening, January 22, with playing to begin at 8 o'clock. Mrs. W. H. Stewart and Mrs. John Farnsworth of the Woman's Civic club, acted as hostesses Monday night, and served refreshments at the close of the series of games.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS CLUBS FRATERNAL FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

CLAUDE YOUNG ELLIOTT

The WOMAN'S DAY-ALLIENE SUMNER

The physical strength of woman has been scientifically determined to be only half that of man, according to a report from the Industrial Fatigue Research board based on tests given 4336 British women. It seems to me that the board should have said "all women are half as strong as men." Granted, though, that the 50 per cent figure stands, it would be interesting to hear the results of some endurance tests given both men and women. Here's suggesting that the endurance of the half-as-strong woman would be found double that of the man.

"DEBUNKING" MOTHERHOOD

"Debunking" motherhood seems to be a favorite occupation of some of our new neighbors. We noticed last night at bridge club to hear the new mother of a four-months-old son proudly announce that she was only just beginning to feel some real affection for her child, whereas hitherto she had regarded him as pretty much of a bore and bother.

"ME, TOO!"

"Me, too," the pretty mother of two little girls took up the tale. Betty was at least a year old before I had any special use for her and I've never liked her nearly so well as Nancy. I get worried sometimes because I don't seem to have the traditional motherhood feelings.

ANOTHER HERETIC

I met another friend in a store the other day. She communicated tidings that "the original Mayflower Pilgrim Fathers were to be augmented by one in the near future," and she checked all respected congratulations by remarking, "No, it's not grand at all. I have none of the authentic prospective-mother emotions."

WHAT IS IT?

Now I happen to know that no children are better cared for and named for and assumed as serious responsibilities than the children of the two friends who laugh at the old-fashioned sentimental motherhood viewpoint. What is this reaction? Is it a reaction to an age which is so full of emotion? Is it honest? Is it a reaction to the fact that all the to-do about motherhood's wonder was pretty much bunk manufactured by women in an age when motherhood was their only job and interest had to be inflated to tremendous proportions? Do you know, I find the new viewpoint awfully refreshing!

WHY THIS IS

Women for years have neglected to remedy their need of outside contacts to widen their interests around other personalities. Comments Anne Morgan. One is apt to answer with the obvious comment that until this recent generation of women, women have had little opportunity to make those "refreshing outside contacts" which have been the lot ever since the first cave man went off on the case with his fellows. It will take more than a generation "outside the home" to transform the average woman's attitude as regards contact with strangers into self-assurance.

"GAVE WOMAN" YET

Railroads, when asked why they provide no smoking or club cars for women, explain that they have had again and again to give women this convenience, but find that it is never used, utilize the space for more necessary conveniences. Women just won't get "gabby." They have lived "in the cave" too long.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY NAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNOCK

(Read The Story, Then Color The Picture)

Jack Frost then disappeared from sight, and Scouty said, "Well, all's all right. Let's walk right through this doorway and explore the underground. Of course it's dark as dark can be, and I don't see how we can see. I think 'twould help us if a little flashlight could be found."

Just then Jack Frost appeared again. Said he, "I have one for you men. You'll find 'twill give you lots of light and help you find your way. Just press the little button tight, and out will come the brilliant light. Don't waste the light, however, 'cause this wasn't made for play."

So Scouty took the light in hand and said, "I think I understand just how to use it. Don't you fret. I will not waste one bit." Jack snapped, "All right. It's up to you." And then he ran right out of view. Then Scouty pressed the button and the flashlight promptly lit.

"Oh, my, it's bright," wee Copy cried. "Come on, let's look around inside. I'll lead the way right through this door. There's nothing to fear. So as they entered, Scouty said, "You lead, I'll flash my light ahead. I'll bet this trip will turn out as thrilling as can be."

The entrance soon was out of sight, as all the bunch turned left and right and trailed on through the passageway. Then Copy stopped and said, "Say, we've walked far enough for now. I've got to get some sleep somehow. Let's flop down on this tunnel floor. I wish we had a bed."

So, down they settled, one and all, to rest against the tunnel wall. "Good night," said Scouty. "When we wake, we'll trudge along some more." And so the bunch fell fast asleep. For hours and hours they didn't peep. Each Tiny dreamed about the fun they all hoped was in store.

Beauty Chats

By EDNA KENT FORBES

It is when you come to the main part of the meal, the fish and meat courses, that you have to watch most if you incline to put on weight. I hate to think what a largish dish of pork and beans will do to the figure! As for roast pork, fried ham, or a dish of sausages with potatoes or pancakes! Be wise and avoid everything that is derived from a pig, or that is fried in any kind of medium: lard, olive oil, butter or the various frying oils being equally dangerous.

If you are having a full course dinner, it would be best really to choose between the fish and the meat, and not take both. Fish with vegetables is quite as nice as meat with vegetables, and generally, not so fattening. Of course, there are fish dishes which are very fattening—fried fish has the added caloric value of whatever it has been fried in, so that, though an average generous helping of most fish is only 120 to 140 calories, it might have fried into it, 200 calories of fat! You'll probably have to have your fish boiled and without sauce—which makes it dull, but you can't make a slim figure without sacrificing something!

All right, boiled fish (and again, lemon juice is useful, for it makes the duller of fish tasty and adds no calories), one small potato if you have counted calories carefully, and one green vegetable, and then you are done with the chief part of your meal.

130 calories for fish, let us say—but avoid salmon for an average serving of that is 250 calories. Salmon with mayonnaise—but never mind, you can't have it! Stick to lean roast beef, that's only 150 calories for an average serving, or lamb or mutton chops are not fattening if you don't eat the fat around them, (except pork chops) and chicken and game, usually, are not very fattening. A generous amount of chicken is less than 200 calories.

MISS P. A.—You have been neglecting your skin for the whole year, as you could not keep the soil out of the pores by merely wiping off the skin every day with a dampened cloth. If you had used creams you would have had a better chance as they do remove soil even better than soap and water. Different temperatures of water are very exhilarating to the skin, and if the skin feels drawn afterward, it means there hasn't been enough rinsing. Apply hot wet cloths to the blackheads to open the pores, then massage with oil or a light cream to soften the impacts. Scrub with warm water and a fine soap, and rinse in cool and then very cold water. A full warm bath all over every day will relieve the pores of the complexion, because the pores over the body are kept more active.

MR. S. A. M.—A massage using cocoa butter, is nourishing for any part of the body, but never use it on the face or throat as it is a heavy oil and may attract soil into enlarged pores.

What Price To Be In Swim?

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Large pictures of debutantes splashed all over the society page, accounts of balls for society buds, tea-dances and parties for the school set—all sorts of gayety! Girls whose lines have fallen in less fortunate places and who devour these items are apt to think that life isn't very fair. Why can't they, too, be in the swim?

If I knew how to answer that this article most probably would not be written. I should join the ranks of enviable matrons who are at this minute superintending the packing of large trunks of summer clothes for shipment to southern climes, as soon as 1928 tips its hat.

I spoke thus to one of the above envied matrons, one whose daughter's picture was one of the "splashed" ones, by the way—and I got my answer!

"Don't wish yourself in my place," she said fervently. "No captain of industry has as much responsibility as I have. Days when I'm too tired to move I have to be up and doing. I never get through and I don't dare let up. Social life gets to be the hardest task master on earth, for you have to keep on going after it loses its edge—and keeping up with other people begins to pall in a very short time. I'm not fitted for anything else—but if it were not too late, I'd choose any of a hundred things rather than the life I lead." And she amazed me by expressing her envy of me.

"Just for a quiet evening once in a while and sit by the fire and read? I love the snow. I love it here in the north. But I can't stay. It just seems to be written," she sighed. "We must go where our friends go and do what our friends do. It is very hard."

So you see, girls and mothers, who are envying the names on the coveted society page, those very people may be envying you.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

One of the screen's most appealing love stories, told with the photographically beautiful Ozark mountains as a background, is "The Shepherd of the Hills," now heading the entertainment bill at the Broadway theater.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" is a screen version of the famous novel by Harold Bell Wright, and the lovers of the story, "Sammy" Lane and Young Matt, are portrayed by Molly O'Day and John Boles.

In the cast, also, are Alec B. Francis, who plays the title role; Matthew Betz, as the villain; and Romaine Fielding, Otis Harlan, Joseph Bennett, Maurice Murphy, Carl Stockdale, Marion Douglas, John Westwood and other notable artists. They give exceedingly human characterizations, and the plot is packed with drama and suspense.

WEST END THEATER

Comedy-drama, augmented by legitimate thrills of the hair-raising variety, has been used to excellent advantage in "Very Confidential," a picture featuring Madge Bellamy which is now showing at the West End theater.

With Miss Bellamy's beauty and her quick response to comedy has been developed, from this story, a really fine picture which will rank with the most pretentious offerings of the year.

Miss Bellamy has a lovely wardrobe but she does not have to depend upon this, for there are gripping sequences and many dramatic episodes. The supporting cast is excellent. It includes Joseph Cawthorn, Pat Cuning, Mary Duncan and Marjorie Beebe.

ery, the memory of the U. S. S. Frigate Constitution, familiarly known as "Old Ironsides" has been immortalized by Oliver Wendell Holmes' famous poem. Paramount studios have in turn re-immortalized the story in a picture of the same name.

"Old Ironsides," from a plot standpoint belongs in the class of historical novels, as in order to round out the story there has been introduced a fictional romance between a country boy and the daughter of the owner of a merchant ship on which he is shanghaied. This also offers opportunity for some of the best natural character comedy the screen has ever seen, in the person of the boss of the boat and a master-sunner of Old Ironsides whom he shanghaies. The clashes between this rough, tough, hard-boiled pair are continuous and a never-ending source of laughter.

The cast includes Wallace Beery, Esther Ralston, George Bancroft, Charles Farrell and others.

S. F. Woman May Capture Prize For Best Book

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The writings of a woman who once worked as a waitress in a San Francisco boarding house are among the works of three British women candidates for the Femina Vie Heureuse prize. The books are "Good-By, Stranger," by Stella Benson; "The Lovely Ship," by Storm Jameson, and "To the Lighthouse," by Virginia Woolf.

Stella Benson in private life is Mrs. O'Gorman Anderson. Her husband is in the Chinese customs service. She has worked on a ranch in Colorado and in a San Francisco boarding house, and has taught in an American university. She has shot tigers in India and been under fire in the Chinese civil war, while she was the first English woman to penetrate into the Indo-Chinese province of Laos.

JACK LOCKWELL

By Patten

Sinnott appeared dumbfounded by what had happened. Jack grasped him by the collar and lifted him to his feet. "It's our move, old bunkie!" he cried. "Step lively!" But one of the gang who had been upset clapped Lockwell about the ankles and brought him down with a thump that shook the building. "I've got him!" panted the ruffian who had floored Jack.

In spite of the fact that he had risen to his feet, Trigger was upset by Lockwell's trick with the table. Sinnott saw the fellow get out a pistol as he sprang up.

Jack seized the young man's wrist and gave it a twist to make him drop his weapon. The pistol was discharged, making a hole in the ceiling. Sinnott wrenched the weapon away, and gave Trigger a smash between the eyes that knocked him down. Turning, he saw Jack struggling furiously with the other three ruffians, who were trying to pin him down. (To Be Continued.)

TRADE FOR THIS TEN

Ten very fine acres of young Valencia oranges for sale or trade. Every young tree is a perfect specimen of citrus culture. Every foot of soil rich, fertile, and productive. Even the location is entirely desirable with highway frontage, a broad view, a high and dry setting practically free from the destructive elements. Twenty thousand dollars is a conservative price to pay for a coming grove as perfectly situated as this one, especially when one has the privilege of exchanging for it.

EVENING SALUTATION

Wisdom alone is true ambition's aim.
Wisdom the source of virtue and of fame,
Obtained with labour, for mankind employed,
And then, when most you share it, best enjoyed.
—William Whitehead.

MAKING HIS OWN MUSIC

George Remus, who is in the insane asylum at Lima, Ohio for wife killing, has joined the choir in the asylum. This is better, possibly than having his daughter in the choir and listening to her singing as Longfellow described it in "The Village Blacksmith." "It sounds to him like her mother's voice."

THE MAXIMUM OF EFFICIENCY

An American engineer has just escaped from his bandit kidnappers by getting his guard drunk and killing the group of four men. It is unfortunate that this method of conviction and execution of those who are guilty of the crime of kidnapping cannot be depended upon in all cases. It would save the state a tremendous expense and incidentally stop kidnapping.

CONFIRMATION MEANS DISINTEGRATION

The report comes from Russia that Trotsky and his aids now have been banished to remote districts of Russia and Siberia. We do not believe it. We are going to wait until this is verified before we credit the governing powers of the Soviet republic with using the form of punishment with which the Russian peasant and the upper classes as well were stirred to revolution.

If there would be any evidence needed for the utter insincerity of the Soviet leaders in presenting to the peace conference a plan for disarmament it would be that in their own country they proposed to crush criticism by banishing the critic to Siberia.

If it has reached the point in Soviet Russia that force of this character must be used not against the former junkies but against their own numbers who do not agree with them in their plans; it is more than the beginning of disintegration. Banished people can speak louder in their banishment than when they are near, where their protests have a natural hearing.

WATCH THE SECOND CHOICE

Everything in the open seems to be favoring Hoover as the next candidate for President on the Republican ticket. Now comes the word that a poll of the congressional delegation from Pennsylvania shows that a half of the thirty-four Republican members from that state are in favor of Mr. Hoover, many of the balance non-committal, a few of them, we believe one in each case, in favor of Longworth, Curtis, and Dawes.

Those who have a peculiar way of impressing one that they are in on the "know" say, with evident superior knowledge, that the convention will not nominate Hoover; it will be Dawes or someone else. This may be possible if a certain class of politician can control the convention. Their method of control has always been to have some local favorite son become a stalking house as a candidate in his own state so as to enable them to select the delegates under the pretense of standing for their local man. The delegates at the proper time, however are supposed to be slung, and have frequently been slung, to the choice upon which the politicians have agreed.

This fraud on the people, however, is more difficult to carry out this year than formerly. The voters are seeing the move clearly. Some of the "favorite sons" are refusing to be used for that purpose and in Ohio there has been an exposure of the plan because it was rather agreed that the second choice of the delegates who should have first choice for Willis for President would be for Hoover. Letters of Senator Willis indicating that they were to be used for other purposes were brought out and there is likely to be strong opposition in Ohio itself to Senator Willis from those who would like to see Secretary Hoover nominated.

It is very probable that as the time approaches if it is found that Hoover has the overwhelming sentiment of the country, which we believe he will have, that Senator Willis himself will join in by suggesting that his delegates should have their second choice for Hoover and he can thereby use them in the political chess game.

MISSIONARIES AND THE BAYONET

On December 13 last the Prudential committee of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions voted to petition the United States government to relieve the missionaries in China from the embarrassment of military protection. The American board has been a society of pioneering endeavor. Those in leadership are long-sighted and are speaking with the interest of the cause of missions in mind, which involves the native Chinese, the efficacy of missionary work, and it goes without saying, involves the question of good will for the future.

They realize that a religion that depends upon bayonets for its propagation and its protection is not the religion that was taught by the Nazarene. There may be forms, edifices, paraphernalia, ritual, and a so-called clergy which may be sustained in position by the power of government, but the religion that was emphasized by the carpenter of Nazareth embodied a faith, a self-effacement and a spirit of friendliness that was as far from depending upon the sword for its strength as powder is from depending upon fire for its preservation. The two things were absolutely inconsistent.

Many missionaries today are insisting that a clearer, keener, more-complete and truer conception of the teachings of the founder of Christianity will be found in the far east than has been discovered in our western civilization. There are those who believe that Gandhi's conception of Jesus more nearly represents him as he taught and wrought, than did Jesus himself in his book "The Man That Nobody Knows."

The truth is that the government's activities many times are embarrassing to missionaries. It is a misapprehension, of course, that the missionary must, as a citizen of the republic, be loyal and subservient to it decree. When he is ordered to leave the country he must leave it or forfeit his right as a citizen. The nearest approach to carrying out the real spirit of the Christian missionary and retaining one's relationship with the government is by the formal petition and protest which the American board has here determined upon.

Any other thought would have been unworthy of the missionary spirit. It would have looked narrow and cowering in the light of Gandhi's appeal in the face of his enemies when he said, "We will win by the shedding of our own blood, not that of our enemies. It is the same thought that was so eloquently and pathetically quoted by Pasteur when the Prussians were coming on Paris and he said, "But I do feel most deeply that if I had to choose between the present situation of France and that of Prussia I would decide for the former. Better far our suffering, our pain, our sacrifices than the cruel and inflexible ambition of our foe." This approaches the Christian spirit.

Let it be known that the Christian missionaries and the activities are not dependent upon physical force and should not be supported by the threat of physical force. It is by suffering and sacrifice that conquering shall be accomplished and that of our own suffering, not of our enemies.

A Desert Waterway

Imperial Valley Press
Egypt is considering a plan to dig a deep-water canal from the Mediterranean, 300 miles through the Sahara desert to a region west of the Siwa oasis, where stood in ancient times the famous temple and oracle of Jupiter Ammon, "The Hidden One."

There is a great depression there below sea level, which might be turned into an inland sea 10,000 square miles in extent. That, the engineers say, would modify the climate and bring rainfall creating a large area of livable territory. Thus the oasis, which now has a population of 2,000 might support 1,000,000 inhabitants.

It is an appealing project. A good many Americans will find romance in it. Yet it really isn't any more romantic than deepening the St. Lawrence channels to bring ocean shipping and cheap freight rates to an already existing inland population of 40,000,000.

Preserve Student Control

Fresno Republican
How far shall an "honor system" be applied in a university? The question is now being asked, sincerely, among the students and the governing body of Stanford. It is a serious question in any college. We can suppose that any school should discharge just the degree of responsibility that it assumes. If it creates a need for discipline, it must discharge that need, or go out of business. If it creates academic rewards, it must make sure that those rewards are fairly obtained and certified. It can not "lead students into temptation." It must "deliver from evil."

So, student control and honor systems are mere devices to extend among students an opportunity to do better what the faculty can at best do only imperfectly. The honor system works if it works. There is nothing essential about it. If students do not control, then control ceases to be a service and becomes a delusion.

But we can not altogether exempt faculties for the failure of student control, any more than we can excuse parents for the failure of their children to acquire self discipline gradually and effectively. College administrators can be as human as others, and one human failing is to "pass the buck." There is a chance that college administrators, having set up student control, fail to watch it. It appears in the Stanford case that President Wilbur is doing some watching to preserve the values of student control before they go all askew.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

EXPOSURE TO LIFE
"I never allow my children to play on the street."
"No, Marie, you certainly can not. You will have to wait until I find time to go with you. You are not old enough to buy your own things yet. Eighteen isn't so old, you know. I know best what you ought to wear."

"My boy is never going to go away from home, either to school, or college or camp. I believe that children ought to be kept in the home. How do you know what they will do once they are out of sight?"

"Doctor, doctor, Tillie got away from us this afternoon and played with the children on the flats. Do you think she could catch anything? I wish you'd come in and see her. I'm so anxious. You never can tell what children will pick up. O, I know, but you never can tell. Playing with these dreadful children, you know."

Life is very uneven. That's what makes it such a joyful adventure. One child is kept in a sterilized nursery and another plays in the gutter and both rise to full and healthy maturity. One lad is kept safely guarded, never allowed to go out with the gang and he is sent home from college in disgrace and the leader of the gang goes through with honors. The girl who was never allowed to buy her own clothes squanders her money for useless gauds and the youngster that learned early how to stretch a dress allowance to the furthestmost basting thread, always looks well dressed and has a balance at the bank.

That is the way of life. It is uncertain and surprising and tragic and funny. We have learned only a few rules of navigation to help us float on this inscrutable sea. And often we use the little we know to upset the little craft we are trying to guide. What use is all our knowledge if we have no common sense? The race has stored up certain experiences that no longer have an entity to our minds. They have become a quality of our thinking, rather than distinct thoughts. That quality is what we know as common sense. We are all supposed to have a little and to use it for the benefit of our children.

How can a child live without tasting life? How long are we going to spoon feed him? In order to live happily he must be exposed to life and learn how to ride it. We can't teach him by handing him our experiences. He must teach himself by gathering his own experiences. It is for us to show our nice judgment and fine common sense by gradually exposing him to life, real, honest, wonderful, wicked, dangerous, glorious life.

True, we select the experiences. But is there anything that allows us to keep on selecting them throughout the lifetime of their child? Begin early and let him investigate for himself. Let him, as soon as possible, mingle with other children and learn of life through them.

Fear killed the cat. Are you letting your fear kill the life in your child? Can't you protect the child without hobbling him? Can't you teach him caution without inspiring fear? Try.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

Making the Old Boy Feel Good

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

BACK TO THE FARM

Through a youth which was mostly devoted to toil,
Such as feeding and milking the kine,
And stoking the silo, and tilling the soil
And carrying corn to the swine—
I said to myself: "When I reach twenty-one
From these toils I shall shake myself free
And with hoeing and sowing and mowing have done;
No farming thereafter for me."

It is years since I rose in the chill winter dark
To dredge from the snow drifts the sheep,
Or rose in the summer to waken the lark
From a laggard and indolent sleep.
It is years since I watched for the sun's burning rim
As it mounted the side of the hill,
The time of my youth has grown misty and dim
But my memory clings to them still.

I have dwelt in the city for years upon years
And the locks have turned gray on my brow,
By my heart gives a throb and my eyes fill with tears
At the sight of a shote or a cow;
In the springtime the scent of the newly turned sod
Has a tender and magical thrill—
And again in my fancy I patiently plod
Down the woodland that led to the mill.

So some day when I'm weary of tumult and strife
And the battle and struggle of men,
I'll go back to the peaceful and untroubled life
Of the quiet old farm, once again.
Once more I shall live 'neath the bright country sky
Where, my happiest memories lurk;
But not till I've got enough money laid by
To have somebody else do the work!

Many of the new plays have actors as characters. In this way the managers are sure of getting actors who can act their parts.

Mr. Ford has achieved the impossible at last. He has made a Ford that doesn't look like a Ford.
The new census gives the population of New York City as 6,000,000. Most New Yorkers were persuaded that there were that many in their own blocks.

How Doctors Camouflage

Your average doctor still has a trait of the medieval man of pills, or to go back farther in time, the witch doctor. He loves to puzzle and mystify. He likes to pronounce big Latin words. He adores discussing ordinary ailments, in such a way that the mere common garden variety of laymen can't understand what he's talking about.

Frinstance: the scene is a court room. The judge has just read a doctor's certificate which explains that a witness can't be present because he is suffering from "lumbago filonitis."

"What on earth is that?" asks the magistrate. "It sounds very terrible."
"A strained back," says the lawyer in the case.
"Well, why on earth didn't he say so in plain English?" retorted the magistrate.
To which we echo a fervent amen.

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake

Your Money's Worth
To hate to be cheated is a human characteristic.

Most people are willing to pay a fair price for what they get.

To discover that somebody else has got the same things for less money always irritates them.

As a rule the avaricious are the most easily cheated.

The man who wants to get something for less than it is worth is an easy victim for the confidence man.

The old method was to wrap up a packet of blank sheets of paper with a good bank note on top and bottom, and show it to a proposed victim with the statement that it was all counterfeit money, but so cleverly counterfeited that no one could tell the difference.

The customer was assured also that the vendor must hastily dispose of his wares for good and sufficient reasons, and is willing to sell them for a tenth of their value.

So the sale is made, then the victim remembers too late that he should have looked at the center of the packet.

Now on the theory that time is money—and it is certainly the equivalent of money, it is worth while to know whether or not you are being cheated when you invest it.

If you are, it is your own fault, and you had better amend it.

Supposing you are working for what you think is a good salary in some position where there is no possibility of advancement.

You are not getting your time's worth, nor your money's worth either.

Far better to take a job for less money and with more opportunity.

Suppose you are in the habit of spending three quarters of your leisure time in some occupation that can do you no possible good.

Again you are being cheated.

For it is the extra time you spend outside your business and which you devote to thinking about it that is likely to put you ahead.

No battle can be planned while it is going on.

Every business man thinks hard about his business while he is away from it.

We all need recreation, but we don't need as much of it as most of us take.

Life gets more complicated all the time. There is more need of concentration and effort than there used to be.

More time has to be expended on a business or a profession than formerly—and if it is not being well expended you are being cheated out of it.

It will not be pleasant to realize either when you are forty-five or fifty, that the person who cheated you out of it was yourself.

If somebody else had cheated you, you would have at least an excuse.

But to think that you were the cheat who kept yourself from getting more money's worth will be very poor consolation.

Lights of New York

By GRANT DIXON

What Every Adult Should Know
NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Insurance salesmen have always been glamorous in our eyes, because they go places I wouldn't dare go and they

While I was lunching with one of these dare-devils last week (he had been in my psychology class at college) he unexpectedly confessed all. He told me that the reason it is possible to make what seems to be impossible sales is that the average man secretly believes he can argue the hide off any salesman, and thus to hear himself try. Once he starts arguing, he hangs himself.

After listening to my friend's disclosure, I am in a position to reveal the cardinal principle for insulating oneself against insurance. It is: always make the wrong answer to the salesman's questions, which are all scientifically designed to bring forth the answer. Yes. Your salvation lies in saying No. He will, of course, expect you to take the soundness and the general worthiness of the idea of insurance into question. This never comes into question. Then he will start off very easily with some such disarming question as this:

"Now, Mr. Fish, as you know I have come to see you about insurance. I assume, sir, that a man of your business integrity has already made provision against unforeseen circumstances, haven't you?" (You say Yes.) "Just as a matter of sound business sense you have created an estate for the protection of your wife, haven't you?" (You say Yes.) "Furthermore, I assume that you wish your non-Roger to enjoy the educational advantages in life that he deserves, don't you?" (Another Yes.)

Well, if you say Yes to all these questions you are a goner because he has a whole string of others calling for affirmative answers which lead inevitably to the execution of a policy. The only safe answer, as we said, is No. If you say No he will still go on trying to sell you insurance but he will be too stunned and dazed to accomplish anything.

A good variation is to say, when the salesman refers to your wife: "I left my wife last week." When he speaks of your son, who will soon be ready for college, bite your lips and say that unfortunately your marriage was childless.

Our friend also informs us that in this business they no longer use the term "to sign" a thing; they say: "to write your name." The word "sign" has come to have sinister tones. Don't let this fool you—writing your name is just as binding.

A Boulevard of Books
In some mysterious way, the old book-shop atmosphere of Fourth Avenue below Fourteenth Street has remained unviolated by the great deluge of the age.

Even such modern affairs as Wambsmoor's, Hamacher-Schlesinger, traffic lights, and the market post office on Thirtieth Street have not encroached upon the row of old houses with a lot of bookshelves in them. There are no bookstores there than ever. We Fifty-ninth Street, for so long considered Fourth Avenue's most serious rival, is gradually declining not because the business has been bad, but because the buildings have been coming down. Perhaps it is the Bible House opposite Wambsmoor's and Cooper Union and the Chair and Chapter House of Grace Church that have preserved the curious virtue of the Fourth Avenue district.

The downtown old-book section consists of a few famous stores and so do the Madison Avenue specialty book sections; the Six Avenue book shops are scattered and hidden. It is only on Fourth Avenue that you can go from door to door and find them all bookstores; on there can you find the indigestible bibliophile in any real quantity.

Just the old lady who has read "Alice in Wonderland" looking for a "copy" of Lewis Carroll. Fourth Avenue no one cares whether you buy or not—and that's a way one of the characteristics of a true quarter.

When it comes to "discovering" however, Fourth Avenue is not a place to go. According to those who shop there regularly and who know it when it was young, the days the bargain are gone. If you pay two dollars for a book, the chance are that it is worth less rather than more. But there is one curious kind of second-hand book that you can still buy there, and that is the reviewer's copy. Often it is sold second hand before it is a first hand; for the miserable reviewer, in order to live at all, has to hurry off and sell for a quarter or fifty cents the book he has just reviewed. In that way they drift into the stalls even before they are to be offered at Brentano's.

Scary Things

By SHIRLEY BOGMAN WILLIAMS

AT Halloween's time all manner of fear notions gather in the minds of some children. If we are not careful about the stories they hear and what the wags' associations may be. One might be a bogie-man or a ghost may make an impression upon your child that the fear impulses will cling to him. The characters of ghosts, bogie-men, witches, etc., have their origin in old superstitions and are invested with gruesome attributes. Yet these things are not so scary as they may seem, but we can explain them and reduce them to their proper level of the fear element disappears. By the casual treatment of their import and the care taken in what is repeated about these characters, the children are made to understand that they exist only in the Land of Fables and that they will have been done to derive them of their fear element.

Once I knew a Peter Pan, just dressed around of winter.
He said they told him by some and jumped at little from them.
He fairly dressed ghosts and the thought of Halloween.
Once that was when, "you said, all the terror could be used."

Do I asked him, "Peter Pan, did you ever seen a ghost?"
Do you know of anyone whom they jumped at from the shadows?
Did your phantasies, as you said, do the things you're kept to keep your most wish or ghost, or a bogie or a ghoul?"

"No," he said, "I have nobody who has ever seen a ghost.
Or a bogie, which is bogie or a bogie, or a bogie."
"Then," said I, "I have seen only for a great big bog to run from each thing as just in spirit, or phantasies, just for fun."
